

POPPLETON HISTORIC STUDY

D-2699

MAG-1#0426995304

Block	Lot	Address
255	21-7	103-131 Scott Street

Approximate age

1800-1845	1845-1860	1865-1880	1880-1896	1896-on
------------------	------------------	------------------	------------------	----------------

103-105	107-111
113
117-127

Rating	Architectural		Condition
A	Significant-save	good	fair	poor bad
B	Quality-Indiv./groups-save	good	fair	poor bad
C	Important to street/groups	good	fair	poor bad
D	Insignificant/detrimental	good	fair	poor bad

Notable features:

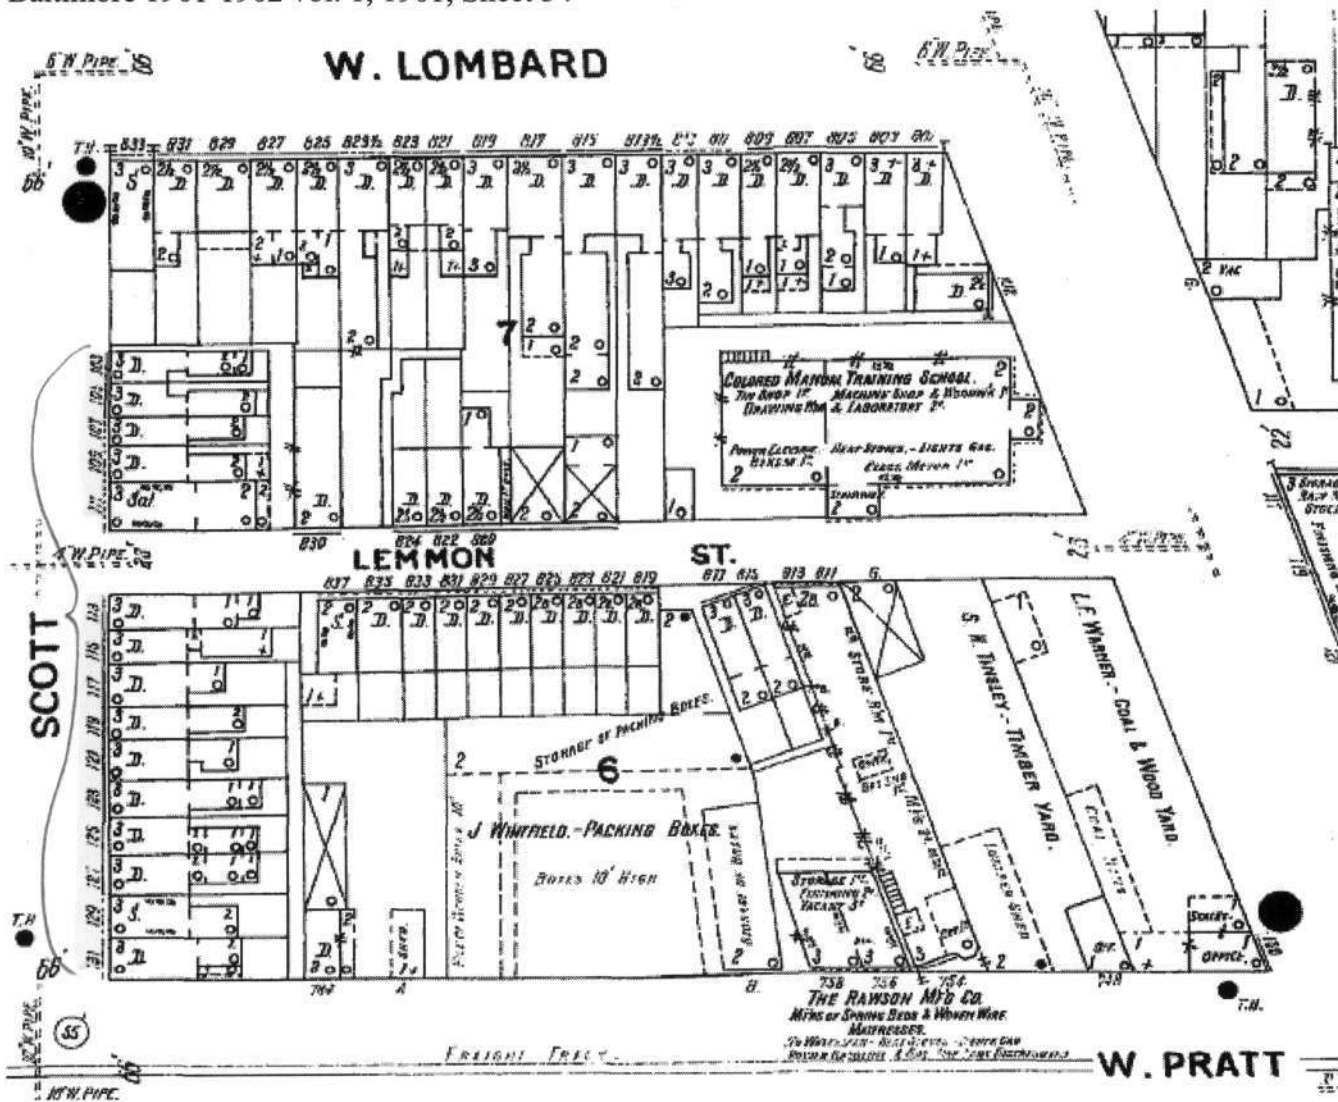

The 1845 tax records show this area as growing, extant houses already taxed. The 3-story gable roofed houses are mid-1840's; number 111 had a nice shop front. Condition is bad, some of the worst in the area, and a great number of vacancies. Should be removed if they cannot be rehabilitated.

Environmental context:

Three of 12 houses are occupied, numbers 103, 105 and 127. Lots (15, 7-8) at 115 and 129-131 have been cleared. There is nice variety of form and style in this group and could provide convenient housing for people who work south of Pratt Street. Street treatment, as well as houses, needs major attention.

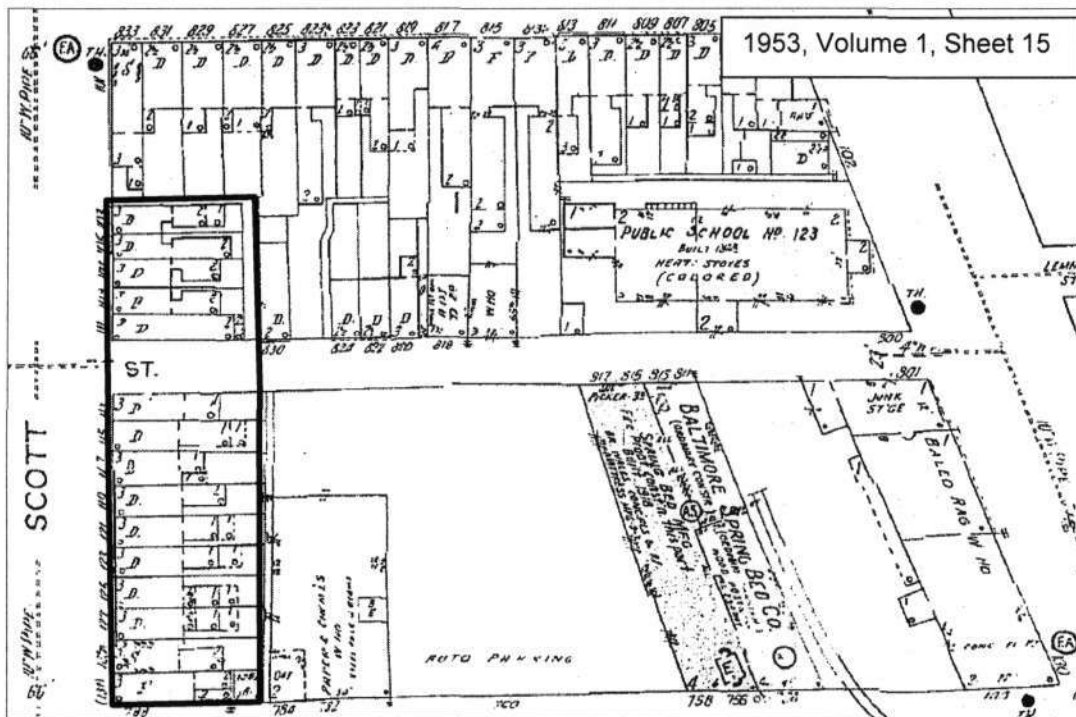

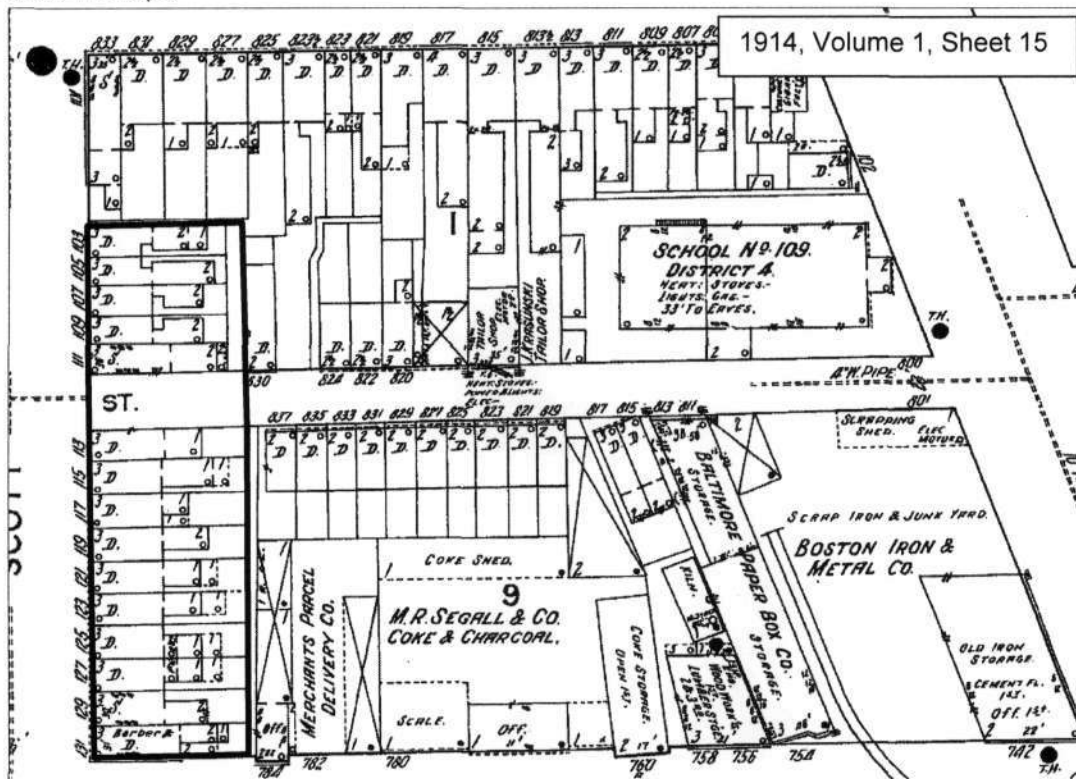

B-2699
 103-131 Scott Street
 Sanborn Map
 Baltimore 1901-1902 vol. 1, 1901, Sheet 34

B-2699

103-131 Scott Street (105, 111, 115, 129, and 131 demolished)

Sanborn Maps

B-2699
103-131 Scott Street (105, 111, 115, 129, and 131 demolished)
Block 0255, Lots 007-021
Baltimore City
Baltimore West Quad

